

Rob Gramlich

Senior Vice President, Government & Public Affairs

AWEA

Rob Gramlich is Senior Vice President for Government and Public Affairs at the American Wind Energy Association, the national trade association of wind energy companies based in Washington DC. Rob joined AWEA in 2005 and oversees the organization's regulatory, state policy, research, and public affairs functions. He has testified before the US Congress, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and state regulatory commissions. He has served on advisory committees for the U.S. Department of Energy and the North American Energy Standards Board, served on the boards of a number of clean energy organizations, and currently serves as Vice Chair of the Business Council for Sustainable Energy. He has published articles on wind integration, wind markets and policy, economic incentives for environmental protection, power market regulation, and electricity market design.

Rob served as Economic Advisor to FERC Chairman Pat Wood III and Senior Economist for PJM Interconnection, and worked for PG&E National Energy Group, World Resources Institute, and the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory in the 1990s.

Rob has a Master's degree in Public Policy from UC Berkeley and a BA with honors and distinction in economics from Colby College.